PREFACE

The Alberta Retail and Service Trade Statistics survey is an annual survey of the retail and service trade sectors of the province conducted by the Survey Operations Unit of the Alberta Bureau of Statistics. This publication presents the results of the 1984 survey. The survey is conducted under the Statistics Bureau Act of Alberta which sets confidentiality requirements restricting the publication of statistics that could be associated with or could identify an individual establishment.

The Bureau of Statistics would like to express its appreciation to all those businesses in the retail and service trade sectors who provided the data used to prepare this publication.

INTRODUCTION

Alberta Retail and Service Trade Statistics is an annual publication of the Alberta Bureau of Statistics. The data presented are based on a survey undertaken by the Bureau on the number of outlets and employees, as well as the level of payroll and sales of the retail and service trade establishments in the province. The 1984 publication is the thirteenth in this series.

The publication is divided into three sections. The first section presents a description of the survey methodology, and statistical highlights in the retail and service trade sectors in 1984. The highlights are accompanied by four tables which present, in detail, statistics at the provincial level as well as selected community size groupings.

The second section consists of 58 tables which provide data on the number of outlets and employees, and the value of payrolls and sales receipts for over 140 business categories, grouped by various population aggregations. The population groupings used in the tables include: Alberta, the thirteen cities of the province, 21 towns of population greater than 5000, and 39 towns of the population range 2000-5000. The latter three groupings are presented both on an aggregate and individual basis. As well, data for selected communities with a population less than 2000, and municipalities within Census Divisions are included.

The final section contains four appendixes. Appendix A defines the terms used in the publication, Appendix B describes the types of businesses surveyed and Appendix C presents the distribution of the number of outlets by the value of sales receipts and size of community. Appendix D contains population data for the various cities, towns, and municipalities included in the survey.

METHODOLOGY

The Retail and Service Trade Statistics survey is undertaken by the Alberta Bureau of Statistics every March. The data collected for 1984 are based on the individual business' fiscal year ending between April 1, 1984 and March 31, 1985. A questionnaire is mailed to all retail and service trade businesses in the province requesting information concerning the number of employees (both full-time and part-time) of the establishment, the total payroll, and total receipts from sales or services. Businesses not surveyed include professional service trades such as dentists, establishments that provide a service to other businesses, retailers as a minor activity of wholesalers or manufacturers, direct door-to-door retailers and those that generate annual sales less than $5,000. The types of businesses surveyed by the Bureau are listed in Appendix B.

All establishments surveyed are classified in accordance with the 1980 Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) Codes and the kind-of-business categories employed by Statistics Canada.* The SIC categories are assigned on the basis of the major activity of the establishment being surveyed.

After the initial mailout of questionnaires in March, a number of follow-up questionnaires are sent to those establishments that did not respond to the first mailout. Once the statistics are collected, they undergo a number of editing and processing checks to identify and correct data response errors.

Procedures are also in place to account for non-response to the survey. An estimate is made for those establishments for which data are not collected, based on a number of factors: the location of the business, trends derived from those businesses within the same SIC which did respond to the survey, and whenever possible, the use of data collected from the establishment-in-question in previous surveys. Actual and estimated data are then aggregated to provide total trade levels for Alberta and subprovincial areas.

Updating procedures are also applied year-round to ensure the most complete coverage possible of the census universe. These include adding newly-established businesses to the survey universe, as well as deleting those establishments no longer in business.

Response to the survey is measured by the effective response fraction, which is the percentage of total statistics based upon actual data. In 1984, the effective response rate was 71 percent for total trade receipts. The retail trade figure was based on 74 percent actual data, a decrease from 77 percent in 1983, while service trade statistics were based on 55 percent actual data, a decrease from the 51 percent response fraction of 1983. The overall response for the various types of businesses ranged from a high of 87 percent in the general merchandise group, to a low of 49 percent in the food and beverage services group.

The retail and service data contained in this publication differ from those published by Statistics Canada for several reasons. First, the Bureau of Statistics undertakes a full census survey of all retail and service trade establishments in the province, while Statistics Canada gathers data on a sample survey basis. As well, Statistics Canada surveys the retail sector on a monthly basis, aggregating the monthly data to a yearly total at the end of each calendar year. The Bureau of Statistics, however, surveys the retail sector only once a year, collecting data for a fiscal year as opposed to each month. The surveys, therefore, differ in survey design. The two surveys also vary in the methodology used to make estimates for the non-responding or non-sampled portion of the survey universe. In addition, the criteria used by the Bureau of Statistics in defining some of the business categories differ from those used by Statistics Canada. Attempts are presently being made to identify and account for these variances.

The statistics presented in this publication conform to the confidentiality guidelines of the Statistics Bureau Act, Chapter S-22, Revised Statutes of Alberta, 1980. The Act prohibits the disclosure of information pertaining to any individual establishment. In some cases, it may be necessary to suppress some statistics which are not in themselves confidential, in order to protect confidential statistics from residual disclosure. An asterisk in place of a statistic indicates that the information cannot be released in order to conform to the confidentiality guidelines.

The statistics on the number of outlets belonging to any type of business are not suppressed since disclosure of this type of information is not governed under the Statistics Bureau Act. The data for numbers of employees, payroll and receipts are suppressed if statistics would release information on one or two outlets. They are also suppressed for three or more outlet totals where one or two outlets account for the majority of the receipts in the group.

CAUTIONARY NOTE

The Alberta Bureau of Statistics updates its list of retail and service trade establishments on a regular basis. Periodically, it becomes necessary to undertake an extensive updating of our list to ensure the most complete survey coverage possible. Such an extensive updating was conducted prior to the 1984 survey. The Bureau's efforts resulted in a net increase of almost 4,200 trade establishments over 1983 figures. In light of the large number of establishments added to the survey, it is recommended that the reader exercise caution when comparing 1984 statistics with those of previous years.

HIGHLIGHTS

This section presents highlights of the 1984 retail and service trade data for Alberta. The highlights are based on four tables which present data for fourteen business groups and six community groupings: Alberta, cities (excluding Calgary and Edmonton), Calgary and Edmonton combined, towns of population greater than 5,000, towns of population 2,000 - 5,000, and towns of population less than 2,000.

- Total provincial trade receipts (retail and service combined) were $19.2 billion. At the provincial level and for all community size groups, retail trade generated no less than 82% of all receipts (see Tables I and IIa). This proportion has declined slightly while the service trade proportion has increased over recent years.

- As in previous years, the automotive group generated the most receipts, accounting for about 30% of total provincial trade, while the food, drug and beverage group was next with 21%.

- Among the various community size groups, the split between retail and service trade was quite similar. There were, however, differences with respect to specific business groups:
  a) the automotive group, while highest in all community groups, accounted for 34% of receipts in towns between 2,000 and 5,000 compared to 27% in Calgary and Edmonton; and
  b) the food, drug and beverage group was the next most dominant group in all communities but was relatively larger (27%) in towns over 5,000 than in Calgary and Edmonton (20%).

- As in previous years, Calgary and Edmonton accounted for the largest shares of retail, service and total trade receipts (about 55% in each category); however, this share has been steadily declining in recent years.

- With a few minor exceptions, the average receipts per outlet decreased with the size of the community for most business groups.

- Retail establishments in the province averaged $1.1 million in receipts per outlet. With one exception (the food, drug and beverage groups in cities other than Calgary and Edmonton), business groups in the two major cities generated the largest per outlet receipts. Of these groups, the general merchandise group generated the highest receipts at $13.2 million per outlet (see Table III). This statistic is an indication of the concentration of large department stores in Calgary and Edmonton.

- Sales receipts of $407,000 per outlet were generated by service trade outlets across the province. Though accommodation services generated the highest receipts per outlet both at the province and city levels, the towns generated a higher proportionate share of their service trade from the accommodation group (see Table IIb). Also noteworthy is the high proportion of receipts for amusement and recreation services found in towns over 5,000 in contrast with the low proportion of receipts found in towns less than 5,000.

- Albertans, on a per capita basis, spent $6,982 on retail trade and $1,369 in the service sector, for a total of $8,351 in 1984 (see Table IV).

- Highest per capita receipts were expended in the automotive group across all communities, which is consistent with the automotive group's overall dominance of trade receipts in Alberta.

- The large value of receipts per capita in the three smallest community groups for accommodation services is consistent with the findings in Table IIb regarding the high proportionate share of service trade from this category. The high accommodation receipts per capita in these towns are a reflection of the resource and tourism-based industries found in many of the smaller communities in Alberta.
